

Anniversary of Washington's Birthday in Brooklyn.

This anniversary was more generally celebrated in Brooklyn yesterday than for many years previous, notwithstanding the miserable condition of the streets, which rendered marching in procession exceedingly disagreeable and wearisome.

The national colors and State flag were displayed from the City Hall at sunrise; and other public buildings, the various American flags, the ferry boats and shipping along the wharves were gayly decorated with similar emblems.

The Court of General Sessions, out of respect to the memory of the great deceased, adjourned over until today; but business, generally, throughout the city was transacted as usual.

At noon services were held from Fort Greene by Capt. Hogan, of Napper Light Artillery, and from the Heights by Capt. Urban, of the Ringgold Horse Guards; the powder having been raised by private contributions, as the Common Council had not enough patriotism in its composition to make an appropriation for the purpose.

About 11 o'clock the American Protestant Associations of New York, came over in a body by the South Ferry. They met at the Grand Central Hotel, Dr. Walter O'Brien, of New York, presiding. They then proceeded to the City Hall, where they were joined by Brooklyn City Lodge, No. 6, and Columbia Lodge, No. 3, of Williamsburg; Empire Lodge, No. 1, of Brooklyn; and the American Protestant Association of New York, having come from New York by way of Williamsburg. After forming into line they passed in review before the city authorities, and marching down Fulton street, recrossed the river to join in the proceedings on the other side.

The American Volunteers, Captain Morgan, according to Warren Chapter No. 3, U. O. A., also proceeded to New York.

In the evening the Young Men's American National Club met at the Athenaeum, in Astor's lecture, for the purpose of celebrating the occasion by public exercises. The house was filled at 7 o'clock, and it was considerably later when the proceedings commenced.

The capacious hall, which is capable of containing several thousand persons, was filled to a jam, the greater proportion consisting of ladies.

The President of the Association, Wm. B. Lewis, Esq., presided, and under the platform were seated the Rev. F. H. Milburn, John Winslow, Esq., Messrs. J. B. Brown, J. P. Byrnes and others.

The extreme right of the hall was occupied by the Kings County Corps of Veterans of 1812, in full uniform, and on their right were seated the members of Brooklyn City Lodge No. 6 American Protestant Association, in uniform.

The proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Milburn, when the American flag was hoisted and the hymn "The Star-Spangled Banner" which was sung with appropriate fervor.

J. B. Brown, Esq., then read Washington's Farewell Address, in a clear and distinct tone, so that every word was equally well heard in any part of the large assembly.

Another song from the Glee Club—"Up, up, with your banner"—having been executed, Colonel Harbison, aided by other gentlemen, delivered an address upon the life and character of Washington, in which he traced his career as an officer from the beginning of the war with France to the close of the Revolution, and recounted some of his struggles with the foe, and depicted the difficulties with which he had to contend in giving shape to the new Government. He then, in a few words, alluded to the character of the man, and his life was a true and noble one, and in the end, his actions were almost divine, yet he was a man, and his faults were human. He then, in a few words, alluded to the character of the man, and his life was a true and noble one, and in the end, his actions were almost divine, yet he was a man, and his faults were human.

The banquet was held at Anson's Hotel, in Ala. street, between 2 and 3 hundred ladies and gentlemen sat down to supper. The table presented a beautiful appearance, and was loaded with the substantial and delicious of the season. The room was tastefully decorated with American flags.

After all had satisfied their appetites the President of the Young Men's National Club, Wm. B. Lewis, Esq., announced the order of the evening.

The day was celebrated—halloved by the birth of him whose spirit overshadowed America, and whose noble repose at Mount Vernon, Maine—Washington's birth.

The Young Men's American Club of Kings County—America born to the will of Americans—the will of no other.

Our Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19, 1886.

The Kansas difficulties in both branches of Congress, the Speech of Senator Wilson—Resolution of the Committee on Elections—Removal by the Doorkeeper—An Attorney General Clifford before the Supreme Court, etc., etc.

The serious character of our Kansas troubles may be judged of by the fact that they have occupied the attention of both houses of Congress to-day, with a fair prospect of monopolizing the same for some time to come.

In the Senate, Mr. Wilson completed his three hours' speech on the President's Kansas message, elaborating his subject in regular, logical style, and backing up his argument with no small amount of assumption. The question was postponed until Monday.

Tennessee, will reply to the Massachusetts Senator, and when, no doubt, the Senate chamber and galleries will be crowded with a brilliant assembly. In the House, a resolution reported by the Committee on Elections was the basis of an exciting and inflammatory debate, which may be considered as chapter one in the long history of discussion which will be sure to follow on this same subject.

The Committee on Elections asked for authority to send for persons and papers, which was resisted by many as an extraordinary power, and a violation of the act of 1861, regulating contested elections. The debate will be found interesting as prefiguring the position of parties in the coming subject. If testimony be taken in this way, it is rumored that Gov. Wilson is to be impeached for the removal of a judge, who is in his possession certain interesting and valuable documents.

Some complaints have been made of the New Yorker's treatment of the Mexican, charging him with having removed a soldier from the Mexican army, and with having been a traitor. The person alluded to was a Mexican, who was a soldier in the Mexican army, and was charged with having removed a soldier from the Mexican army, and with having been a traitor.

The country can't use good, those from the South must improve, and be followed by a greater consumption demand hereafter, considering that the whole advance on cotton since the receipt of peace news on the 2d inst. amounts to about 10 cent per lb., which, on a crop of 1,400,000 bales, still in this country for export, will make a difference of $6 per bale, or a total in favor of the country of $8,400,000.

The Independent again gives a list of failures which have occurred within a recent period. It seems the principal number occurred north of Mason & Dixon's line. Owing to the prevailing inactivity the past week, there was a slight falling off in some destinations of foreign goods. The business, however, within a day or two, has displayed unusual activity; merchants from the West are arriving more freely, and purchasing to a greater extent. In domestic goods the business has been quite fair for the season, and in the class of fabrics suitable for the export trade the market has been firm and tolerably brisk. There was a good demand for cloths, with a light stock of medium and low grades. Cassimeres and satines were without change of moment. Tweeds and jeans were dull. Linseys were dull at 12c. a 14c. There was a good demand for stripes and ticks. Printing cloths were in fair demand. The following were the inside prices at Providence:
